Moonlighting

Students' lives no longer consist of reading, writing and arithmetic, or in more modern terms, literature, composition and math. Academic subjects are important to students and are their "main job," but today students also moonlight in a diverse array of activities and jobs, both in school and out of school.

Students involve themselves in school-sponsored sports and activities that range from acting to wrestling or war gaming. Outside school, students pursue various hobbies including wood burning and scuba diving. They work for pay or volunteer their services.

Many students are not content to moonlight in one area. They may hold a paying job, volunteer in various areas, and participate in one or more activities. For example, Bill Martin, pictured on page six, is active in Concert Choir, Ensembles and History Club. Outside school, Bill works at Wehrenberg Theatres and Rolling Acres Stables and competes in horse shows. While doing all of this, he takes a full load of courses including Honors English, French, Accounting and Computer Information Processing.

Bill is not an isolated example. Truly, Belleville West students are "doing it all."

Melissa Wimmer dances for the Metropolitan Ballet of St. Louis. She received her training at the Belleville School of Ballet. Melissa rehearses or takes classes seven days a week. In the spring she appeared in Coppelia, After Images and Pas de Quatre. This summer she plans to study in New York.

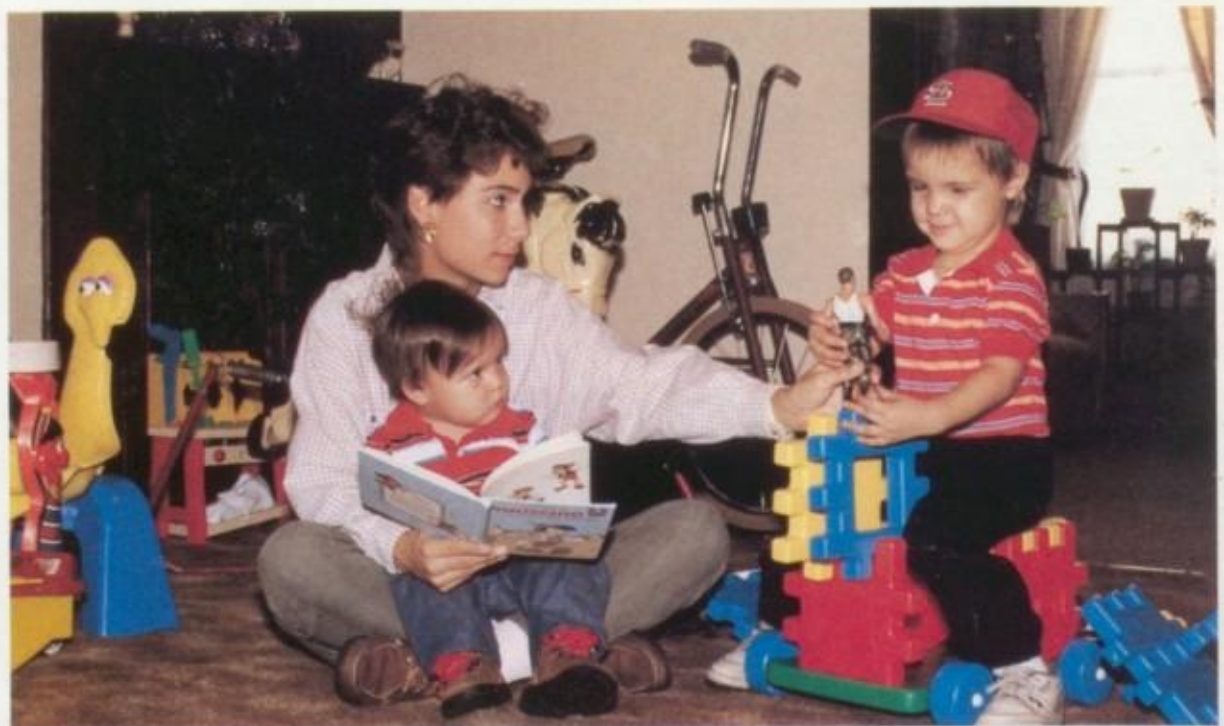

Rodney Renner enjoys scuba diving.

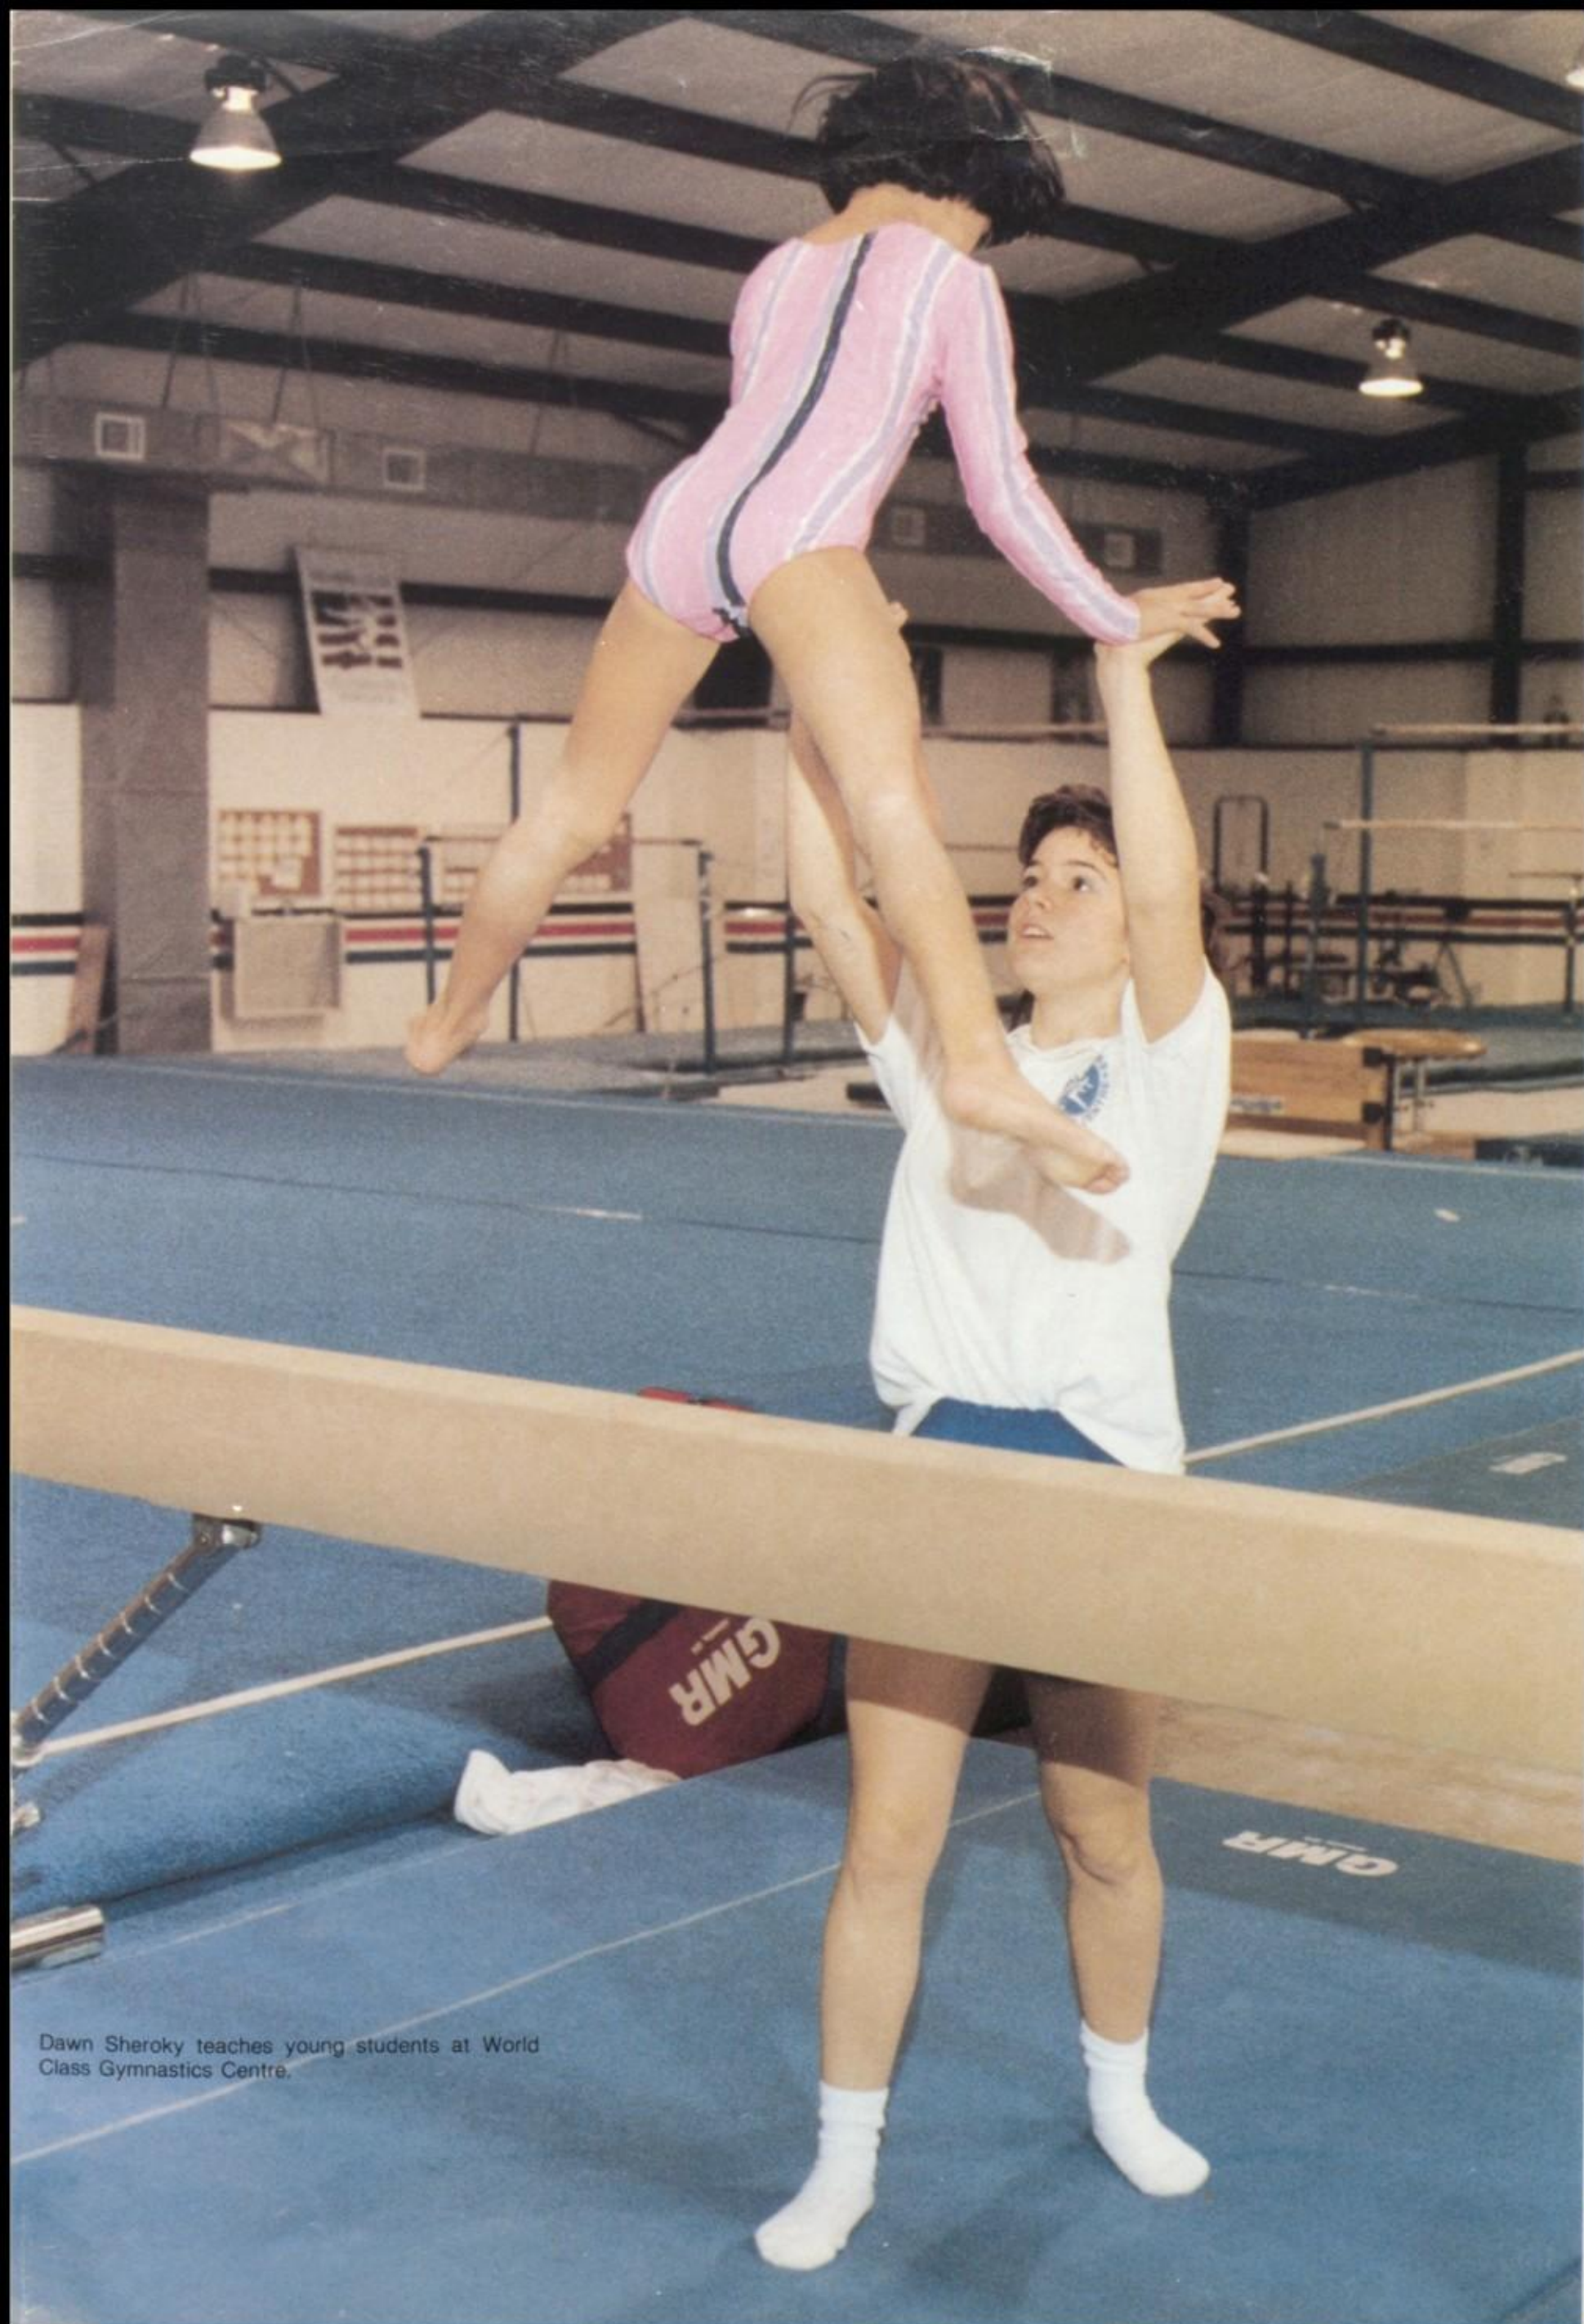

Gary Flowers competes in archery. His latest win was a bronze medal at the Prairie State competition.

Michelle Torigian works on one of her hobbies, wood burning.

Becky Trapp baby sits for her nephews, Michael Lodes, 3, and Steven Lodes, 1. Becky also baby sits for other relatives and works at Casa Gonzalez.

Jody Perkins works at the Drive Thru window.

Bill Martin, above with Zorro, has won awards at horse shows.

Jennifer Lindauer bags a woman's order at Kmart.

Barry Fultz (above) enjoys weight lifting. He placed second in Olympic Weight Lifting in the Junior Pan-American Games held in Venezuela this year. In March he went to Australia for the World Cup competition. He has been the Prairie State Champion three times and has broken state records. A.J. Fisher (right) plays drums for a local band, Dixie Express.

Jami Schnyder greets Mrs. Gussie Tonne at Schnucks Station Restaurant.

ACTRESSES Jennifer Yale and Diana Johnston perform in Every Room With a Bath. Pam Christen works on hall decorations.

Kyra Raphaelidis and Laura Wasko show their patriotism with stars and stripes.

Red, white and blue abounds on campus as students show their spirit.

WE THE PEOPLE

On September 17, students and faculty participated in the bicentennial celebration of the United States Constitution. Students and faculty members showed their patriotism by dressing either in colonial costumes or in red, white and blue clothing. The cafeteria provided a colonial breakfast for the staff and later served colonial foods during the lunch periods. After the breakfast, staff members planted bicentennial trees around campus.

Participating in the tree planting are Mr. John Goodnick, Principal Jerry Turner and faculty members dressed in colonial costumes. The costumed teachers are Mr. Robert Hanson, Mrs. Mary Ellen Struze, Mrs. Jean Canale, Mrs. Mary Staley, Mrs. Gussie Tonne, Mrs. Mona Scheibel and Miss Nina Bono. At left, George Washington (Principal Jerry Turner) and Ben Franklin (Mr. Robert Hanson) discuss current events outside the assistant principal's offices.

ROYALTY

In the fall, royalty consisted of Miss Maroon Mila Zenarosa and her court of Kolllette Davis, Jill Klein, Elaine Mueller and Lisa Pennington.

The five senior girls were selected by the Class of '88. Then the entire student body voted on which would be awarded the title of Miss Maroon.

At the Hobo Day assembly October 16, Miss Maroon was announced by Principal Jerry Turner and crowned by her predecessor, Jill Plassmeyer.

Principal Jerry Turner gives Mila Zenarosa the key to victory.

Miss Maroon Mila Zenarosa and her escort Derek Betz await their journey through downtown Belleville in the traditional Hobo Day Parade held this year on October 16.

Jill Plassmeyer, the retiring Miss Maroon, is all smiles as she rides in the Hobo Day Parade. At right, Jill hands over the crown as well as the responsibilities of being Miss Maroon to Mila Zenarosa. Mike McClary, Jill's escort, applauds. Both Jill and Mike returned from college to be part of the Hobo Day festivities. Jill is a student at Indiana University at Bloomington. Mike attends the University of Illinois at Champaign.

Elaine Mueller and her escort Joe See walk to the front of the crowded assembly.

Lisa Pennington and escort Ian Shepherd approach the podium.

DECORATORS

The newest addition to the football team, Tony the Tiger, gets a hug from cheerleader Ginger Schubert.

Students showed a real flair for decorating. On October 16 students began decorating the halls at 3:30 p.m. and many did not finish until 10:00. On Friday the halls created a festive background for the Hobo Day activities. This year's Spirit Week theme, cereals, led to a wide variety of decorations from Tony the Tiger to Toucan Sam and the Smurfs. Decorating the halls were Bellevinois, cheerleaders, Distributive Education, French Club, Hy News, Model United Nations and the pompon squad.

COSTUME DESIGNERS

Students showed Academy Award winning talent in costume design during Spirit Week. On the first day, students dressed as Flower Children. Then came Harley Day, which called for black leather and chains. On Class Distinction Day, each class dressed according to its own theme. Freshmen wore college sweatshirts and boxer shorts, sophomores dressed inside out, juniors represented school rivals and seniors dressed according to the Blues Brothers theme. On Hobo Day students created a variety of costumes ranging from the traditional hobos to creative variations on the Spirit Week theme of cereals.

Mark Gansert dresses as a mad doctor.

Edith Besse and Veronica Tapley wear togas, Mark Heinz dresses as an Iranian terrorist, and Emily Thompson dresses as a sailor.

Erin Moore and Terry Schalk show school spirit by dressing up on Hobo Day.

Secretary Lynn Schwoebel gets in the spirit of the week by dressing up for Harley Day.

Mr. Fritz Kunze discusses the parade line up with Blues Brothers Jay Zaber, Tom Tyler, and Brian Hohlt.

Following the theme of cereals, Sharla Rasmussen, Teresa Burrelsman and Jody Perkins dress up as Snap, Crackle and Pop. Lisa Padgett (below) portrays an Althoff bunny, complete with carrot.

Tara Fiscus and Holly Hubbs dress in army fatigues, Denny Cooper joins Mark Heinz as a terrorist and Lisa Moore dresses as a clown.

MERRYMAKERS

West students have two things in common: their enthusiasm and their ability to have fun. During Spirit Week students were able to participate in many fun activities such as float building, dress-up days, tug-of-war contests, arm wrestling, hall decorating, juggling, the Hobo Day assembly, the parade down West Main Street and the pep rally on the corner of Third and West Main. Spirit Week brought out everyone's enthusiasm, but this fun-loving spirit continued as an integral part of campus life throughout the year.

Rhonda Richmond, LaToya Owens and Tamiko Martinez show their cheerfulness on Constitution Day

MARCHERS

Marching Band members were not the only students to march in the annual Hobo Day Parade. The tradition continued this year as students representing each class journeyed down West Main Street toward downtown Belleville.

The pompon girls cheer while marching.

BLASTS FROM THE PAST

Spirit Week gave students a chance to dress as people did in the past. Some students came to school dressed as "greasers." Clad in t-shirts, blue jeans, bandanas, leather jackets and boots, they looked as if they had stepped right out of the 1950's. Other students dressed as "hippies" of the 1960's. Slogans such as "Peace," "Make Love, Not War," "Get Out of Vietnam" and "Flower Power" were prevalent around campus. Still other students dressed in clothes suggested by the film The Blues Brothers. In this 1980 movie set in Chicago, stars John Belushi and Dan Ackroyd were out to reunite their band and raise enough money to keep their old parochial school open. West students dressing for this theme wore a variety of outfits. Some dressed in the title characters' well known black suits, hats and dark glasses. Others dressed as nuns from the parochial school. Still others recreated members of the National Guard or Nazi Party, who appeared in the film as antagonists of Jake and Elwood Blues. No matter what students wore, though, they enjoyed the change from their usual routine.

Seniors Susan Baum and Missy Theis are the Blues Brothers for Class Distinction Day.

Laura Wasko checks her appearance before going on stage.

Mrs. Temple (Mindi Stroup) argues with her son (Matt Duncan) in "Every Room With Bath."

The cuckoo bird (Kristy Harpole) mocks the other characters. At right, Villain (Jason Berry) steals a portfolio from Clarabelle (Beth Carroll). Both scenes are from the one-act play "Clarabelle the Clockwatcher."

ACTORS

Lady Bracknell (Katie Bush) receives a cup of tea from Algernon Moncrieff (Ryan Cady) in the fall play.

All of the talented actors were not on Broadway. West had its own talented actors who lit up the stage. West's productions included three one-act plays, the spring musical, The Incredible Jungle Journey of Fenda Maria and The Importance of Being Earnest.

John Worthing (Jeff Dent) calmly proposes to Gwendolyn Fairfax (Joan Adams).

John Worthing (Jeff Dent) thinks carefully before answering a question about women.

Miss Prism (Jodi Papproth) talks with the Rev. Chasuble (Andy Goldenhersh).

Lady Bracknell (Katie Bush) pays a visit to her nephew in The Importance of Being Earnest.

CONCERNED CITIZENS

Belleville West students and staff took time from their busy schedules to help the community. The Distributive Education class sponsored a Christmas party for twenty-four children. The children received gifts and enjoyed the undivided attention of DE students. Freshman civics classes, Hy News, Fellowship of Christian Athletes and National Honor Society helped needy families. Students Against Driving Drunk and Student Council provided the Safe Ride program during the Christmas vacation. In addition, concerned students and faculty members gave blood during the two Blood Drives held at West. Many others at West also served the community throughout the year.

Mike Ackermann takes inventory of the donations.

Amy Little clutches Mila Zenarosa's hand for support.

The Marching Maroons provide musical entertainment for the Salvation Army Tree of Lights ceremony.

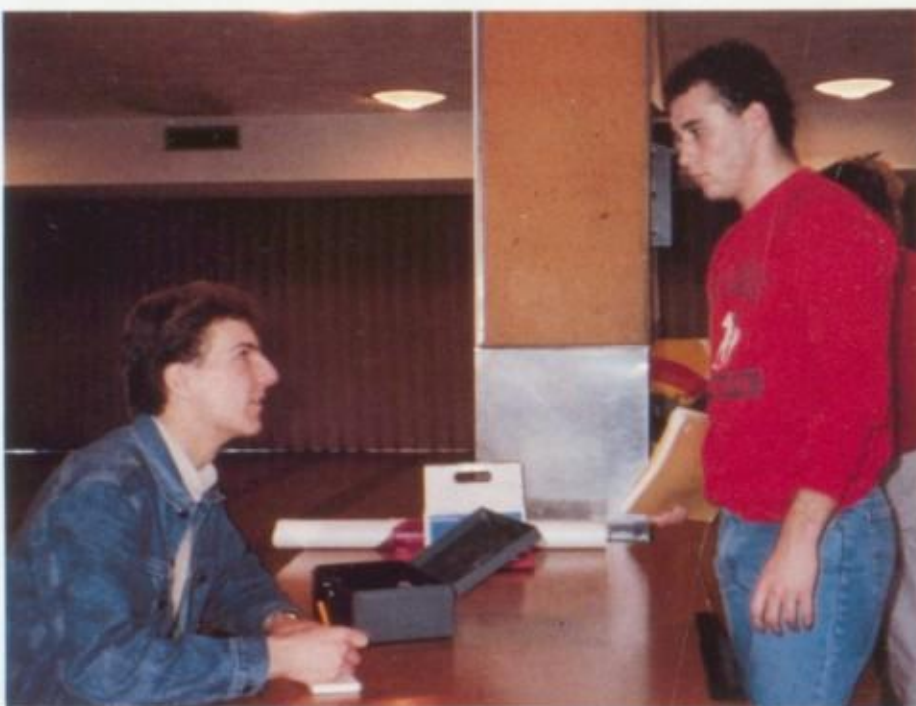

Senior John Hunter (above) answers a few questions about his medical history so he can give blood. Rod Euchner (left), also a senior, relaxes after doing his part to make this year's first American Red Cross Blood Drive a success. John and Rod were two of the one hundred fifty-two students and faculty members to donate blood during the December 3 Blood Drive. West topped its goal of one hundred forty-five pints of blood by seven pints.

Rick Wangelin sells a 1988 Bellevinois to Roger Elliot.

FUND RAISERS

Cheerleaders Kristi Dunck and Kim Zimmermann sell Rootin' Rags to Maroon fans.

The Marching Maroons form an assembly line to make pizzas.

Students found many ways to raise money for school organizations. A new fund raiser was the car wash sponsored by the Junior Class. DE members sold candles, candy and Christmas items. OO students also sold Christmas items as well as sweat suits. The Bellevinois sold popcorn at home football games and co-sponsored the Donkey Basketball Game. Marching Band members made and sold pizzas. Student Council tried a variety of fund raisers. Other money makers included the Magazine Drive and numerous bake sales.

Joe Crossno, high salesman of the 1986 Magazine Drive, speaks to freshmen about selling techniques.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT

Injuries plagued many Belleville West students this year, but they did not let the injuries keep them down. Broken arms, sprained ankles, broken legs and surgery took some Belleville West students out of the action temporarily. After having time to recover, the students were back in the swing of things. Indeed, West students proved true the saying that when the going gets tough, the tough get going.

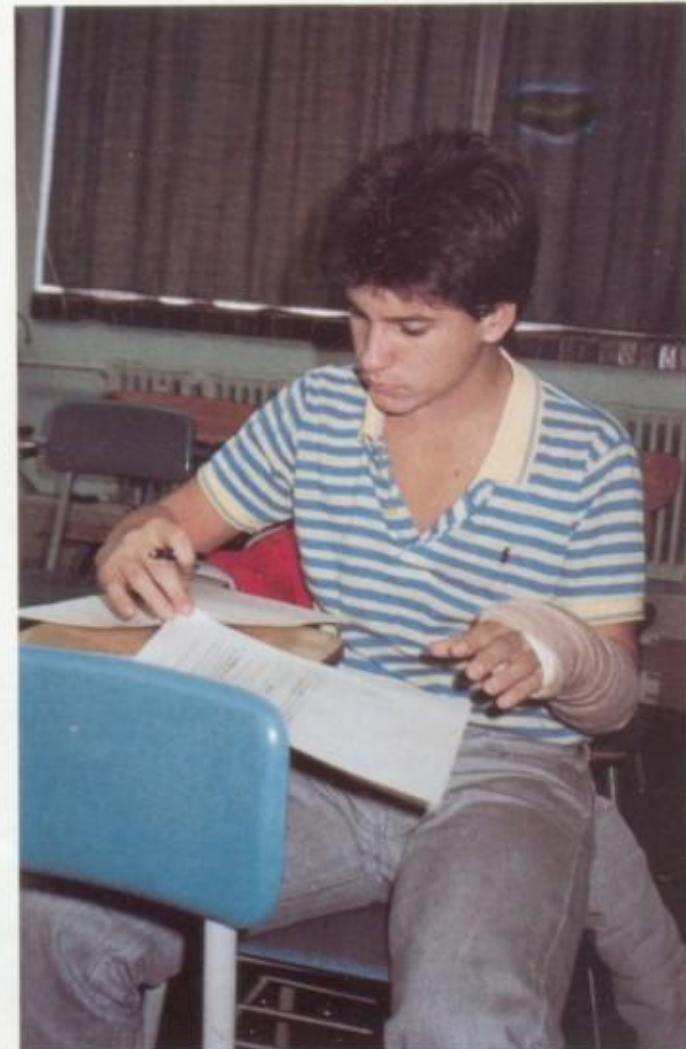

John Pry, who had surgery on his leg, takes a break between classes.

Michelle Webb gives support to Irene Angelou, who injured her knee.

After having an operation on her heel, Jodi Prindable gets back into her daily routine.

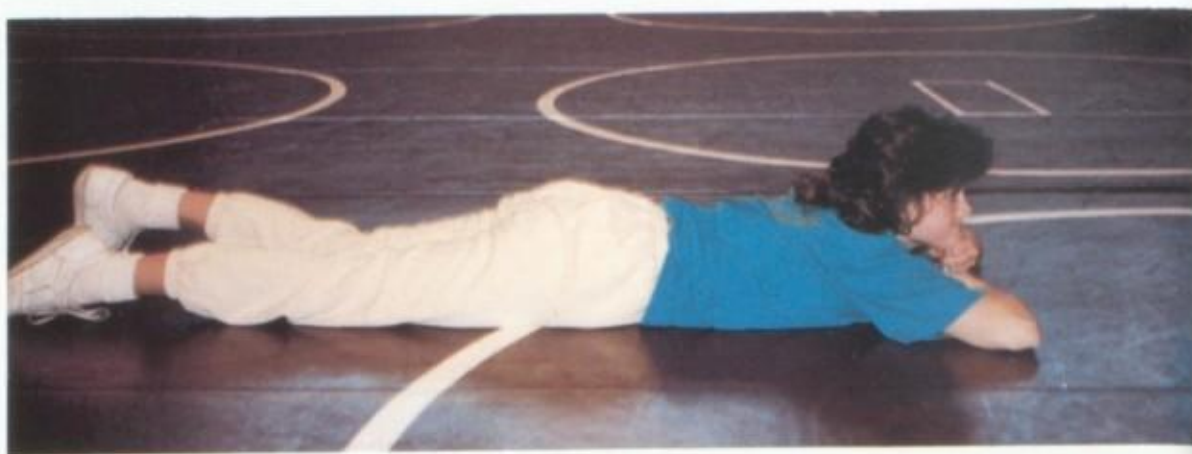

Jody Perkins (above) manages to keep going, even with two broken arms. Vernon Jones (left) does not let knee surgery stop him.

With third degree burns on her arm, Tracy Stratton tries to keep her mind on her work. Juli Hilgert (left) manages to hobble down the Main Building stairs with her sprained ankle.

TIME OUT

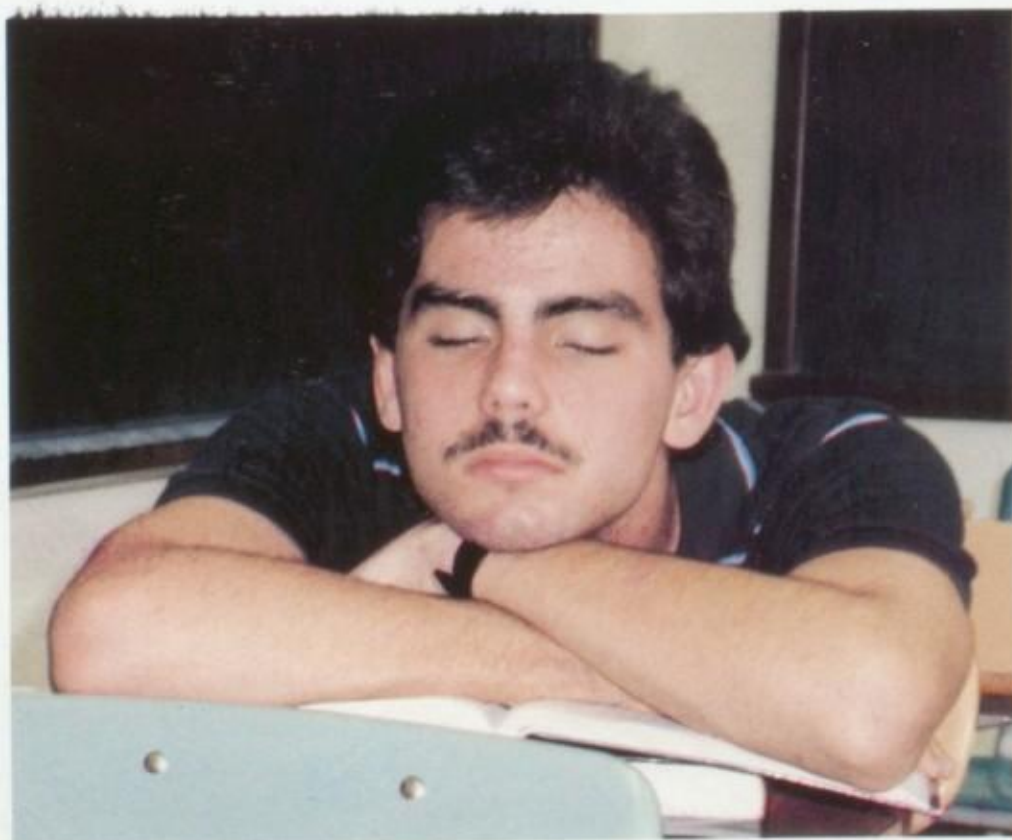

The old adage that all good things must come to an end held true for West students. They worked hard in and out of the classroom, but their energy sometimes waned. At times, students could be seen resting, relaxing, or snoozing around campus. Because of busy schedules, getting a moment to take a deep breath or catch a few winks became a necessity.

Sheri Fox takes a breather at the end of her seventh hour aerobics class.

ENTHUSIASTIC STUDENTS cheer at the first pep assembly of the year. Mr. Gary Twesten dresses for Spirit Week.

"Don't be just a musician, or just an athlete, or just an actor or actress. Try everything and see what you really like."

Ian Shepherd

Class of 1988

Senior year finally arrived — the final year of high school that had consumed the thoughts of the Class of '88 since August, 1984. Was it all that the seniors thought it would be? What stood out among the year's events?

Off-campus lunch was the one privilege that all the seniors had anticipated. Even though the cafeteria had a wider variety of food this year, seniors still liked having the freedom to eat wherever they wanted. Of course, with choice came some problems. As Lisa Heafner pointed out, "Deciding where to go when all of your friends want to go somewhere different can cause arguments."

Getting back to school in time for the next class was another problem seniors faced. "Road construction, trains, and lack of parking spaces nearly made us late numerous times," recalled Ryan Cady. "We were late getting back several times. We were beginning to run out of excuses for Mr. Petri," related another student.

Slow service at some area restaurants was another source of tension for the seniors who ventured off campus for lunch. "We once had to eat our pizza in five minutes on the way back to school," Michele Heet said.

For many students the donkey basketball game was the highlight of the year. "We made fun of the seniors for three years because we thought it looked so easy, but it wasn't," commented Karen Ritzel. "It was hilarious the way some seniors kept on going while the donkeys kept still," laughed Joan Adams.

On the serious side, students who could not give blood last year were looking forward to this year's blood drives. Some seniors were not sure if they would be able to go through with it. Denise Goldsmith echoed the feelings of many when she stated, "I would really like to give blood because it can help many people, but I'm not sure I can stand to have a needle stuck in my arm and watch my blood drain away into a bag." Bill Martin agreed and added, "It takes a student who can stomach the thought of losing blood, something I can't do."

Although graduation seems like a joyous occasion, it too had a serious side and it brought out mixed feelings in most seniors. As Emily Thompson said, "I am happy because I'll be moving on to bigger and better things, but I'm sad since I'll never see some of the people here at West again."

What advice do seniors have for the underclassmen who will be seniors themselves one day? "Get involved as much as you can. Don't be just a musician, or just an athlete, or just an actor or actress. Try everything and see what you really like," Ian Shepherd suggested. "Enjoy it while you can. It goes by very fast. Make the best of it," Derek Betz advised. Most seniors agreed with Derek. The past four years seemed to fly by. It seems like only yesterday that the members of the Class of '88 were freshmen.

"The best thing about being a junior was the hope that we had only one more year after this one."

John Ford

C lass of 1989

What, if anything, should be changed at Belleville West?

A common answer given by juniors was a desire for open campus privileges. Some juniors such as Erin Sears felt these privileges should be extended to include only juniors and seniors. Others, including Dawn Anna, felt that everyone should be entitled to open campus.

Joel Eggerding favored abolishing mandatory physical education classes, and Jeff Robinson wanted a men's volleyball team. Renee DeFrates and Katie Bush asked for more time between classes and longer lunch periods.

Rob Dyer offered a different view. "I would have a heightened awareness of the embarrassments which result from having strangers look into occupied stalls which lack the common convenience of a door," Rob stated.

Juniors were also asked what made their junior year different from the first two years at West. Many cited knowing more people and knowing more in general. Being specific, Summer Johnston said, "I finally met a decent guy." On the other hand, Leia Raphaelidis responded, "Not much changed. I just had more classes with seniors."

"The best thing about being a junior was the hope that we had only one more year after this one," John Ford explained. Jennifer Shaw added, "I just liked not being a freshman or sophomore."

Not everything went well for some juniors. "The time I had a 'Kick Me' sign on my back for a whole month was the worst. People kept kicking me. I fell down the stairs and I couldn't figure out why," Geoff Bay related. The school nurse, however, could not recall the incident.

Looking ahead to senior year, Johnna Rogers said, "I look forward to donkey basketball and fewer classes." Jennifer Amlung expressed the feelings of many juniors. "I look forward to going out to lunch and not having to eat school food any more," Jennifer said. Other juniors looked forward to the prom, choosing a college, no curfew, no study hall, graduation, and world peace.

Certainly changes are in store for the soon-to-be seniors.

"The classes got a lot harder and the teachers expected more."

Christy Pirtle

C lass of 1990

On the first day of school sophomores had many pleasant feelings about returning. They were no longer the low men on the totem pole. "I felt cooler and more confident than when I started my freshman year," explained Debbie Tedrick. "It was so neat because I felt superior to some of the new kids," said Matt Johnson.

As the year progressed, many memorable experiences occurred that will be remembered by the Class of '90. Sophomores showed tremendous spirit at every assembly, sporting event and activity. They also marched supportively behind their class float on Hobo Day.

More personal experiences will also be remembered. "What I will remember most in future years is not being teased.

It is fun being able to tease freshmen and not be teased yourself," joked Rachael Bates. "I will always remember the respect I received as a sophomore but did not get as a freshman," said Dayna Bone.

Being a sophomore also brought greater responsibility. "I had to be a good role model for younger students so they didn't act stupid," said Mike Swearingen proudly. "The classes got a lot harder and the teachers expected more," recalled Christy Pirtle.

Many sophomores took driver's education during the school year. They concentrated intently on putting the car in the right gear at the right time and trying to parallel park without smashing the car.

Many sophomores started planning their future years at Belleville West. "I am going to use my time wisely," explained Ryan Neal. Dayna Bone stated, "As I move up toward graduation, I am looking forward to more independence in our classes, study halls and lunches." Matt Johnson wants to meet new people and have "lots of fun."

The sophomore year has been a busy one. It has been a year full of hard work, fun and excitement. Sophomores have accomplished many goals, but they realize that in their next two years at Belleville West they will have many new and different goals to reach. They will come back in the fall as upperclassmen, full of anticipation and ready for more fun and excitement.

"The teachers here seem to care about the students."

Kristie Kramer

C lass of 1991

On August 25, Belleville West opened its doors for the beginning of the 1987-88 school year. On that day, members of the Class of '91 began a new chapter in their lives. Many had anxiously waited over the summer for the beginning of school and wondered what it would be like as high school students.

Most freshmen found that crowded hallways were a problem for them. "There were so many students in the halls between classes that it was hard to get to your locker and then to class on time," stated Paul Wagner. "When you had to rush to get to class on time you didn't have much time to talk with friends," pointed out Eric Beasley.

Freshmen also found that high school brought increased responsibility. Alvin Kirkwood said, "The work here is much harder than at my old school." Melissa Damann commented, "The teachers hand out more homework and seem to expect much more from you than they did at my previous school." On the other hand, "The teachers here seem to care about the students," said Kristie Kramer.

West's cafeteria system was different from the freshmen's former schools. It gave them a choice of what kind of food they wanted to eat each day. As Stacey Fiers said, "I liked choosing what I wanted to eat, not what the cooks wanted to give me." The best things about the cafeteria, in the opinion of the freshmen, were the sundae bar, the large tables that fit many people and the jukebox.

Nearly all the freshmen complained about the cafeteria's failure to serve soda during the lunch hours (a state law). "I wish they would serve soda at lunch, not just in the morning and afternoon. Some of us don't have free hours, or we don't like drinking soda at 8 a.m.," said Susan Hohlt. "I don't see why we could have soda with our donuts and not soda with our sandwiches," one freshman complained.

Overall, freshmen found more to like than to dislike at West. Kevin Barnett and Rob Arnold liked "getting to meet new people and making new friends." Dennis Liu appreciated that "West has many different clubs and sports that students could join." Laurie Dintelmann liked "the chance to go outside between classes to see that the real world was still there — even though this was a disadvantage on rainy days."

"I like to see the kids start their careers with a good education and hope that I was a small part of it."

SCHOOL BOARD

Members of the District 201 Board of Education moonlight every time they attend a Board meeting. All have "main jobs" outside education. Board President Gary Hemmer is vice-president of Magna Group, Inc. He was selected one of the Outstanding Young Men of America for 1987. Mr. Robert Nebgen, Board vice-president, owns and operates Nebgen Auto Electric, Inc. Mr. Edward Burris is retired. He was a supervisor at Monsanto Chemical Company. Mr. Wesley Krummrich owns Bob's Flower Shop. Mr. Leonard Moore is a retired industrial engineer who had worked at the American Steel Foundry. Mr. George Nold is retired from being Title Operations Officer at Chicago Title Insurance Company. Mrs. Barbara Slocomb is a housewife.

These seven School Board members were elected by voters in District 201. In addition, Mrs. Jean Nelson served as Board Secretary and Mr. Ralph Durango was the Board Attorney.

The question that lingers in most minds is "Why?" Why take time out of their lives to serve on the District 201 School Board? "Most Board members have a genuine concern for the community, particularly the educational system," according to Mrs. Nelson. "We have an excellent Board. The Board members are doing a very good job of seeing that quality education continues in our district," commented Mr. Hem-mer, an East graduate. Mr. Nebgen, a West graduate, explained that he decided to serve on the Board "to give something back to the community that gave me a good education." Mr. Nebgen added, "I like to see the kids start their careers with a good education and hope that I was a small part of it." Mrs. Slocomb, like many other Board members, has always been interested in education. "I feel that being on the Board is a learning experience and I want to keep up the good educational system," she said.

Belleville Township High School District 201 is indeed fortunate to have such dedicated individuals "moonlighting" on the School Board.

ADMINISTRATION

District 201 administrators were Dr. John R. Dosier, Superintendent; Mr. Douglas Dahm, Administrative Assistant; and Mr. Eugene Sawalich, Business Manager.

Dr. Dosier has served as Superintendent since July, 1985. Before that, he had been Assistant Superintendent for eighteen years. Mr. Dahm, who had been an English teacher and an Assistant Principal at West, was also named to his present position in 1985. Mr. Sawalich has been the District Business Manager since 1971.

Administrators responsible for managing the West campus were Principal Jerry Turner and Assistant Principals Joe Chmeleck, Judy Duncan, and Robert Petri. Mr. Turner, who has been prinicipal for twenty years, was formerly a social studies teacher and a basketball coach. Mr. Chmeleck taught speech courses and directed plays. Mrs. Duncan was previously an English teacher and publications adviser. Mr. Petri taught Industrial Arts.

Just as students moonlight in other areas, so do the administrators. Dr. Dosier enjoys going to auctions in his spare time. Besides spending time with his wife and three children, Mr. Dahm likes to go duck hunting. He also plays on the staff softball team. Mr. Sawalich is an IHSA football official. This year he refereed one of the class 5A state final games. In that game, Joliet Catholic defeated Peoria Richwoods. Mr. Turner loves to be with his grandchildren in his free time. He also enjoys reading. Mrs. Duncan, who has a son in sixth grade, is a member of the Emge/Ellis Parents' Club, and helps with Boy Scout Troop 12. "When you have a child, you find that you spend a lot of time attending his activities," she explained. Mr. Chmeleck enjoys activities connected with his home. "We live on a farm and I like all the things that are included," Mr. Chmeleck said. He added that he likes eating his wife's cooking and slaughtering his own livestock. Mr. Petri enjoys water skiing and "about any other outdoor sport." He is also a member of the Belleville Kiwanis Club.

Certainly the administrators are well-rounded individuals who enjoy a variety of activities.

District 201 administrators are Dr. John R. Dosier (seated), superintendent; Mrs. Jean Nelson, Board secretary; Mr. Douglas Dahm, Administrative Assistant; and Mr. Eugene Sawalich, Business Manager.

Principal Jerry Turner has been head of the West campus for twenty years. He is often seen at school events such as football games (below).

Mr. Dennis Butts

STAFF

Each day of the school year, staff members performed work that was vital to the running of the school. What many people did not see, however, was the work teachers, counselors, and other staff members did outside school.

These moonlighting activities included teaching Sunday School, serving on boards of community organizations and participating in team sports. Staff members also spent time with their families, often playing chauffeur for their children. Some found time to work on various hobbies. Others traveled, studied, or taught elsewhere.

During the summer, for example, Mr. Dennis Butts worked at Super Camp, an accelerated learning program aimed at high school students. "I wanted the experience of working with students in a different way," Mr. Butts said. "I knew I could use what I learned with the students here," he added.

Throughout the year, Miss Jane Mueth taught a psychological technique called Transformational Fantasy. According to Miss Mueth, "Transformational Fantasy is a technique where you use imagery to change your perception of yourself as well as the world around you."

Staff members' reasons for their activities were as varied as their interests. Mr. Fritz Kunze, who climbed mountains during the summer, said that it was the companionship and the strong satisfaction in making a new peak that made him want to pursue this hobby. Mr. Larry Obenchain liked to tinker with his '57 Chevy because "it's something different." Mr. Gene Maurer dabbled in the stock market. "I had developed an interest in it over about ten or twelve years from television programs and I like to make money," he stated.

On the other hand, Mrs. Bonnie Gessford's hobby is her family. "I have three young sons at home and I just don't have the time for anything else," she said.

Indeed, Belleville West staff members did more than just work at school, and these outside interests were often reflected in their work at West.

The Main Job

Formula for success

Some students 'double up' for more math

Part of the time spent by many students at the main job of school was in math classes. The different courses offered a chance for all of the students to test their skills at being mathematicians. Freshmen could take courses ranging from Basic Math to Honors Algebra, while many sophomores decided to work at learning Geometry. Juniors often chose to take Advanced Algebra. College Algebra - Trigonometry was available for seniors who wished to have a fourth year of math. Those students with high mathematical ability many times "doubled up" as sophomores, taking both Geometry and Advanced Algebra. That way they could take a "fifth year" of math, or Calculus, during their senior year. "It's difficult, but once you practice, the problems become easier," pointed out junior Mary Helen Alvey.

Regardless of the course, a familiar cry was, "I don't understand this!" Still, as the year progressed, that cry was heard less often as the students learned to work effectively. Despite this, many students were glad to see the end of the school year so that they could have a break from the formulas and problems that had consumed their minds for the approximately one hundred eighty days that school was in session.

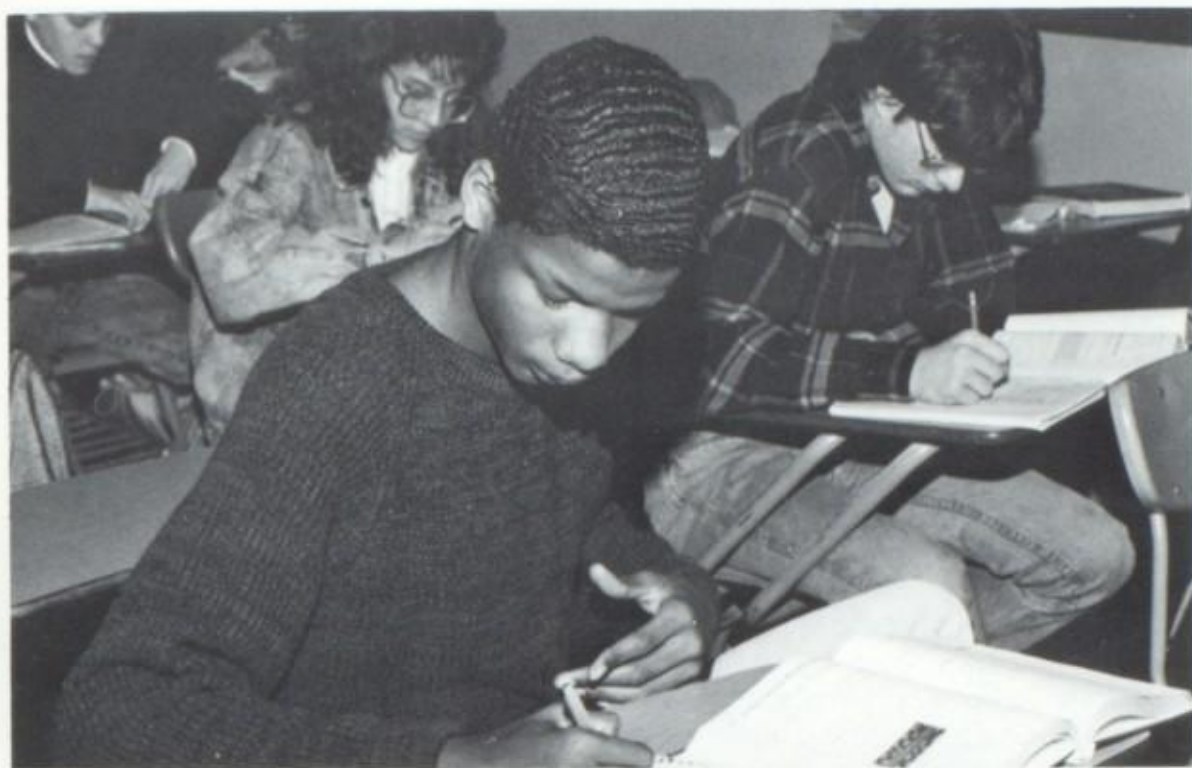

Jody Smyth works on an Apple IIgs computer in Programming in Pascal, one of many courses offered in the Mathematics Department.

Archer (arch' er) n. A person who shoots with bow and arrow.

Teachers and students alike enjoy the thrill of archery. Although Mr. John Reed says he spends most of his time chasing the arrows that miss his target and shoots strictly for pleasure, others take the sport very seriously. Senior David Flowers, junior Jeff Griffin and freshman Gary Flowers spend much of their spare time practicing for competitions. According to Jeff, archery takes up a lot of time, but he enjoys the sense of accomplishment.

To be or not to be

This year's English Department has continued to reach for better ways to meet the students' needs, according to Mr. George Shea. To accomplish this, Mr. Shea and English Department members set up a few basic goals for the department. These goals were: to develop a sensitivity to what it is to be human; to develop the ability to write, read, and speak effectively; to develop an awareness of literary thoughts of predecessors as well as contemporaries; and finally, to become aware of differing sets of values and to develop the ability to choose wisely among them. These goals were to support the main goal of familiarizing the students with the English language and literature.

For the first time English students had the chance of taking honors English courses in the freshman through senior levels. In past years only juniors and seniors had been offered these classes.

These and the other English classes were designed to fit each student's English ability level. The classes ranged from Chapter 1 for those who found reading difficult, to Honors English 7-8 for those who excelled in English. The new honors program demonstrated the English Department's dedication to providing the best for its students.

West's English program has grown, but it has not changed. Just like the year before, freshmen took English 1-2, reviewing basic English skills. Sophomores were in Oral Communication making speeches and learning interpersonal communication skills one semester, and in English 3 studying literature and writing the other semester. Juniors and seniors chose their own classes from a variety of electives offering something for everyone. Mass Media, Composition, Journalism, Creative Writing and Technical Theater were just a few of the choices.

Contestant (con test' ant) n. One who challenges or competes in a contest.

Some girls dream of participation in a pageant, but three Belleville West seniors need not dream. Michelle Haynes, Karen Ritzel and Lynne Willett participated in the Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant held August 29. One hundred young women from Illinois gave their all to place first in the contest. The winner of the pageant received a $10,000 scholarship, a diamond watch, paid in full tuition for a modeling education and a trip to the national Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant. Contestants in the national

Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant spent four days in Springfield, Illinois, learning dance routines and practicing for the pageant itself.

Scientific breakthroughs

Student scientists rank first at JETS contest

This year many advances were made in the Science Department. The Board of Education supplied ten more microscopes in addition to providing a video camera that allowed students to view the microscopic specimens on the television screen. This piece of equipment was very helpful to the learning process because the teacher could explain what was under the microscopes more accurately.

Not only microscopes were added to the Science Department, however. The addition of the new science teacher, Mr. Frank Cange, brought about a new competitive activity for West students. Mr. Cange sponsored and helped to prepare West students for regional competitions based on academic ability in the fields of science and English. One such competition was the JETS contest held at Belleville Area College on February 19. First place winners for the team included Leah Farinas in biology, Andy Clemens in physics and Henry Lee in mathematics. Elyse Spaite finished second in biology and Jon Berry placed second in both physics and computers. Kevin Maurer finished third in mathematics and Andy Clemens took third place in computers. Overall, West finished first among the eight large schools that attended the contest. At the state contest March 31, the squad placed sixth.

Counselor (koun' se ler) n. An adviser.

Mat Gipson is an eating disorder counselor at Care Unit Hospital in St. Louis. After overcoming his own eating disorder, Mat hesitantly became a counselor. He received 12 hours of counselor training and then served as an assistant counselor for the first two months. Mat monitors group counseling discussions and initiates and distributes questionnaires and personal data tests. Mat plans to discontinue his job when he goes to college in the fall, but he may do some volunteer work while he is in DeKalb.

Students have fun while learning languages

Foreign language students participated in many activities during the year. In Mrs. Mary Oberneufemann's third year Spanish class, students made cards out of red and white paper and decorated them to celebrate Valentine's Day. "It was interesting to give a friend taking another language a Spanish Valentine," recalled third year student Lisa Witcher. Laura Dill thought the best day in Spanish class was the time her class cut out paper animals and made Bingo cards out of them.

The German classes used class time to explore the language that is familiar to many long-time Belleville residents. The German students also got together on a Friday night to have dinner at Eberhard's, a German restaurant in Waterloo, Illinois.

The French classes participated in festivities such as celebrating Mardi Gras. All of the French classes gathered together after school to watch the operetta Carmen and to sample cheese as well as chocolate and peanut butter fondues. Mr. Farren Stover, Foreign Language Department Chairman, and his fourth year class had a Christmas party. They ate different kinds of pudding, cream puffs and assorted French cakes.

Indeed, the language classes proved that students could learn and still have fun.

Pianist (pi an' ist) n. A person who plays the piano.

Three hours of practice a day is what it takes for senior Derison Duarte to fine tune his piano playing. Derison became interested eight years ago when St. James grade school offered organ lessons. Derison enjoys the performing most, but dislikes all the work and practice it takes to be good. Derison hopes to become a concert pianist or pursue a similar career in music.

We the people

Social studies leads constitution celebration

Since 1987 marked the two hundredth anniversary of the United States Constitution, great emphasis was placed on celebrating the event. Mr. Robert Hanson believed that his department led the way. Visitors who arrived on campus September 12 witnessed the enthusiasm that many students and faculty members showed in dressing up either in costumes from the colonial period or in red, white and blue.

During the year, many different courses were offered in the Social Studies Department. As freshmen, most students took Civics. As juniors, students chose the traditional United States History course or the United States mini-courses, which included America's West, Men at War, Twenties and Thirties and Nuclear Age. Other subjects offered in the Social Studies Department were American Problems, Government, Physiography, Psychology, Social Studies, World Geography and World History. To graduate, a student needed one year of United States history (either the traditional course or the mini-courses) and one year of either Civics or a combination of Government and a consumer education course.

In World Geography, Chad Cochran (above) locates a city on the Illinois map. Below, students in a first hour United States History class listen attentively to a lecture on the Civil War.

Musician (myoo zi sh' en) n. A person who is skilled in composing or performing music.

Many talented musicians attend Belleville West, and some even use their talent in music to entertain audiences outside school. Seniors Chris Buckley, A.J. Fisher, Derek Hasenstab and Ian Shepherd, junior Karl Schloz, and sophomore Eddie Caumiant are members of rock or country bands that perform throughout the area. This activity occupies much of the musicians' time, but they enjoy the applause and the profit. A.J., a member of Dixie Express, explained, "Being in a band is something I've always wanted to do."

Business classes keep up with technology

The Business Department offered a variety of courses, which gave the students a wide range of computer and business experience. The classes offered were Accounting, Business English, Business Law, Business Math, COBOL, Computer Information Processing, Computer Software, Consumer Education, Electronic Office Systems, Introduction to Business and Computers, Introduction to Business Management, Marketing Distribution, Personal Typing, Shorthand and Typing. Although no new courses were offered this year, there were some additions and changes in the curriculum. The classes were far more computer-oriented than in past years. Second year typing classes were taught on word processors and Personal Typing students also got the chance to occasionally work on them.

One of the major points stressed in all of the business courses was the importance of computers. Therefore, the business department attempted to have all of the classes do some work on the computers. Senior Kendra Karstens stated, "These classes give the students a good understanding of what the business world is like."

Seniors Trisha Bridges, Leah Farnas, Lisa Pennington, Patty Sims and Angela Tyler, and freshmen Amy Bailey, Jenny Gaertner and Kristie Kramer are familiar with the excitement of the world of modeling.

Some of them have appeared on television and in magazines and newspapers. Others have appeared in fashion shows and as mannequins in store windows.

Slice of life

Students cook, weld, draft and build

Through Home Economics and Industrial Education classes, students were given the opportunity to work as homemakers, meal planners, construction engineers, architects, woodworkers, automotive mechanics, nutritionists, general shop workers, drafters, electricians and welders. Some Industrial Education students also worked as shop foremen during General Shop classes. The many varied occupations enabled students to create useful articles such as clothes, furniture and tools. Courses in Industrial Education included General Shop, Machine Shop, Electronics, Architectural Drawing, Mechanical Drawing, Architectural Engineering, Wood Technology, Construction Occupations and Auto Mechanics. The highlight of the year for Construction students was the building of two storage sheds which were sold to raise money to buy the wood used in wood shop classes. Students in Family Living learned how to deal with family relationships, including parenthood and caring for children. The knowledge and confidence gained by such experiences prepared the students not only for careers in related vocations but also for the future in general.

Dancer (dans' er) n. One who moves rhythmically to music.

Whether they do tap, ballet, or just move their toes to the rhythm, these girls do it with style and grace. In their time away from school, some Belleville West girls attend dance lessons as well as display their talents in parades, contests and recitals. These girls include seniors Joan Adams, Michelle Corbin, Tiffany Ackermann, Heather Knox and Emily Thompson as well as sophomores Julie Matthiesen, Christy Pirtle, Pam Schlueter and Elise Strohm. "Performing in front of an audience is a lot of fun," pointed out Tiffany.

Imagine that

Artists use imagination to create projects

In Belleville West's Art Department, students had a chance to use their imaginations. Each student was given the opportunity to show his creativity in courses that emphasized drawing, painting, ceramics, crafts and sculpting. Mr. Doug Eskra, Art Department Chairman, reported that enrollment in art classes was down this year. "Because the requirements for graduation have been raised in other areas, fewer students are able to take art courses even when they really want these courses. There just isn't room in their schedules for everything," he said.

"West has one of the best Art Departments around," insisted Tom Hafley. "Mr. Eskra helps us to shape our artistic abilities and to think more creatively," Tom added. The students' works are displayed in cases located in the cafeteria and the library. For students such as Angie Grewe, "Having our work displayed for the whole school to see is the best reward we could get for our hard work." In art classes, the students are encouraged to develop their imaginations and creativity. This gives them the incentive to be good at what they like to do, pointed out Mr. Eskra.

When the course ended, the Y.M.C.A. asked Jeff to work there as a lifeguard and swimming instructor, and he has been there for two years. He teaches all levels of classes from novice to very advanced. He works in the summer as a lifeguard to help pay for college.

Apple a day

Health, P.E. teach mental, physical fitness

Students were required to take eight semesters of Physical Education. This eight semesters included one semester each of Health and Driver Education. As freshmen, students were not given any choices as to the sport they took. The sport was chosen by the teacher according to the weather conditions. Sophomores, juniors and seniors were given a choice in P.E., but some complained that they did not get what they really wanted. Although some students did not enjoy P.E. and preferred to be in a regular classroom, most students thought it was a great way to exercise and break up the daily classroom routine. In the spring, many just enjoyed being outside.

As freshmen, Belleville West students were required to take Health. In this class, students first learned the "wellness concept," which taught students to be healthy in both mind and body. Next, Health students learned the causes of death and how to exercise and eat for a longer, healthier life. Sex education on reproduction, birth control, pregnancy and sexually transmitted diseases provided valuable information. Then, after learning how to save their own lives, the students were taught to save others. The Health students practiced Cardio Pulmonary Resuscitation on Annie the dummy, and the Heimlich Maneuver was demonstrated until the students felt they could save a choking victim without hesitation. According to freshman Sarah Baum, "Health was a very interesting and informative class." Freshman Marty Bauer added, "Health taught me how to change my lifestyle for the better."

Student drivers spend 25% of class time on road

Students, start the engines! Every year anxious and excited beginning drivers grip the steering wheels with their sweaty hands. This is the moment they have been waiting for.

Driver Education not only taught students driving skills, but also fulfilled one semester of the eight required for Physical Education. The course was organized into four-day cycles. On Day One, students were in the classroom learning the rules of the road. On Day Two, they were behind the wheel in the simulator. On Day Three, they were back in the classroom. On Day Four, they were finally in one of the three Driver Education cars out on the open road, experiencing the real thing.

VOLLEYBALL

For the fourth consecutive year, the Mighty Maroons' volleyball team completed its season at the state tournament. The squad fought to the very end against Mother McAuley in the IHSA finals, but finally succumbed, 15-13, 15-12. Mother McAuley went on to win the State Championship.

Leading the squad to a 32-4 record were Dana Frerker, who was named most valuable/inspirational, All-Conference and All-Area, and Nancy Mason, All-Conference and All-State. All-Conference and All-Area honors went to Kim Halusan and Kim Johannsen. Beth Bair, Jennifer Jones and Tara Triefenbach rounded out the starting squad. Dana Frerker felt strongly about the team's success. "Our success resulted in our strongest performance at state," she said.

CROSS COUNTRY

Cross Country was a "way of life" for the boys' squad, according to captain Jon Berry. They had a sense of brotherhood that carried over outside school and was reflected in the boys' performances. They took both the city and conference crowns as well as first place in the East Invitational. They were second in the county and in the regionals.

Leading the West harriers was John Blassingame, who won the city, county, conference, and regional titles. Excellent performances were also turned in by sophomores Chris Judy and Ben Fuchs, seniors Jon Berry and Dean Crowl, and junior Todd Weeks.

The girls' squad placed second in the conference and in the county. Rudi Baker led the girls' team, winning the city championship and placing second at the East Invitational.

The soccer team posted its first .500 season in eight years while competing against some of the highest quality teams, according to Coach Bill Houck. "We were able to beat the 1986 State Champion (Collinsville), and we only lost 1-0 to the 1987 State Champion (Granite City)," Coach Houck added.

Leading the squad were Tim Kruse, Jay Zaber, Jeff Opt and Chris Stanczyk. Kruse, with two goals and three assists, was named to the All-Area, All-Conference, and All-Sectional teams. Goalie Zaber broke the school record for career saves with 486. He was also named to the All-Conference and All-Area teams. Leading the scorers were Opt with seven and Stanczyk with six.

FOOTBALL

The Mighty Maroon football team got off to a rocky start but managed a high note late in the season with a win over cross-town rival East. For the season, Mike Eiskant led the Maroons in scoring with 38 points. This included two touchdowns against East. Ralph Smith was the top receiver and Glen Bostick led in rushing. Joe See was the leading punter, kicking 32 times for 1003 yards.

A muddy Derek Betz's determined search for extra yardage pays off in the first game.

Quarterback Tad Smith awaits the snap in a game against the Alton Redbirds.

The Maroons make sure everyone understands his responsibility for the next play.

Mike Hall struggles for extra yardage against the Althoff Crusaders. In the Althoff game, Hall led the Maroons in receiving. He also led the team in receiving against Hazelwood Central and Granite City and in rushing against East Moline, Granite City and East St. Louis. Overall, Hall gained 358 yards for the Maroons. Unfortunately, Hall hurt his knee in the Collinsville game October 9 and was out for the rest of the season.

CHEERLEADING

Enthusiasm, creativity and precision made the cheerleaders a winning squad. At the Centralia Holiday Tournament in December, the cheerleaders won first place. West cheerleaders have won this competition for eight consecutive years and for sixteen of the eighteen times that they have competed. At Tennessee Technical University's summer camp, the girls won first place in cheer and second place in sideline. "Cheerleading at West can be physically grueling, but it is also fun," according to Kolette Davis. "Cheerleading is a sport that requires physical skills, develops leadership and teaches teamwork," added Jill Klein.

Cheerleading at West would not have the winning reputation it has without Mrs. Merle Guthrie. Mrs. Guthrie, who retires at the end of the 1987-88 school year, has been the coach of cheerleading squads on this campus for twenty-eight years. "Cheerleading with Mrs. Guthrie has taught me many values, especially to be on time," explained Dana Holmes.

WRESTLING

West grapplers posted a 9-6 record this year. Leading the squad were John Churchill with a 30-7 record and seventeen pins; Joe Daubach, 22-7-4 with five pins; Andy Juengel, 22-11-1 with five pins; Joe Fye, 21-10 with six pins; and Brad Kaemmerer, 15-12 with four pins. Churchill, Fye and Juengel advanced to the sectionals, and Churchill competed at state. Churchill and Fye were also named to the Southwestern Conference First Team. Daubach, Juengel and Steve Dima were named to the Second Team.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL

The girls' basketball team finished another successful season with a 17-9 record. The girls were the only team in the conference to defeat East. They also placed second in the prestigious Duchesne Tournament. The team ended the season, however, with a loss to East in the first round of the regionals. Leading the squad in scoring and rebounding was Nancy Mason. Mason averaged 16.1 points per game and 8.4 rebounds per game. Kim Halusan was the second leading scorer, averaging 11.7 points per game.

BOYS' BASKETBALL

Jumping off to a successful season, the boys' basketball team started the year with six wins in a row, including two exciting one-point victories over Belleville East and Centralia. The cagers continued to show their skill as they compiled a 20-9 record, the best for the boys' squad since 1982. The cagers also won the regional championship by defeating Mascoutah and East. They beat Collinsville in the sectional before falling to a strong East St. Louis Lincoln team. Brian Hohlt led the team in scoring, averaging 15.2 points per game. He made 50 percent of his shots from the floor and 63 percent from the free throw line. He also led the squad in rebounds.

Staff adds supplement

The 1988 Bellevinois staff added a first to the history of yearbooks on the West Campus with the debut of the spring supplement. In the past, the March deadline prevented coverage of spring sports and other spring events such as the Donkey Basketball game, Prom, Junior Fun Festival and Graduation. With the supplement, students were still able to get their 240-page yearbooks at the end of May and have coverage of the spring events.

From September through May, staff members were faced with the problems of taking hundreds of pictures, designing layouts, and writing. Most staff members had only half an hour each day to work on the book, unlike previous years where the entire staff met for an hour. This lack of time caused many problems as deadlines approached.

To finance the yearbook, staff members sponsored a Hobo Day dance, sold popcorn and programs at football games, co-sponsored the Donkey Basketball game, held bake sales, sold ads to local businesses, and, of course, took yearbook orders. Just for fun, the staff also entered the Hall Decorating Contest during Spirit Week and decorated the hall above the Bellevinois office.

Hy News makes changes

Belleville West witnessed a surprising first issue of the Hy News in September. Both the style and the production of the school newspaper had changed.

One of the most noticeable changes was the use of newsprint instead of the sturdier white paper used in the past. The size of the paper was also reduced. Sacrificing the eight large issues per year, the Hy News instead turned out twelve smaller issues, allowing the publication to be more current. Production of the paper was sped along by the use of two MacIntosh SE computers and a laser printer. The Hy News found the new equipment necessary because of rising printing costs. According to Hy News adviser Mrs. Nancy Smith, the computers gave the staff greater control over the production of the paper, as well as facilitating competition in paper quality with other schools. The investment was considered for some time before the actual purchase was made. Other improvements to production included a new darkroom and a separate business staff.

The Hy News published news about the school's activities as well as other stories that were of interest to high school students. In each issue, a section was devoted to interviews with West teachers, bringing students and teachers a little closer.

Tracy Allison enters her story on one of the staff's computers while Angie Cook talks to an advertiser.

Distributive Education

DE member wins state post

Distributive Education was a three-dimensional cooperative program. The first dimension was the class, which was held every day from 8:30 to 10:25. The second dimension was the training stations or jobs in the community. The third dimension was the Distributive Education Club. Membership in the club was limited to students in the Distributive Education class and meetings were usually held during class on Fridays.

Club activities included breakfast meetings with guest speakers, a Christmas party for underprivileged children, an Employer Appreciation Dinner and several fund raisers. Club members also traveled to Chicago, Edwardsville and Springfield. At the state elections held in Chicago, Kay Guetterman was elected state vice-president. At the area contest held in Edwardsville, many club members won awards. First place awards went to Kristy Hofmeister, Tonya Keck and Christy York. Taking second place honors were Kay Guetterman and Lynda Turner. Cathi Felts and Jennifer Pahl received fourth place awards. Competency awards given to students scoring seventy percent or better went to Cathi Felts, Kay Guetterman, Kristy Hofmeister, Tonya Keck, Justine LaBrier, Jennifer Pahl, Ann Roberson, Lynda Turner and Christy York. For fun, Distributive Education Club members participated in softball and volleyball games.

Club teaches job skills

Membership in the Office Occupations Club was limited to students in the two Office Occupations classes, which met during second and third hours every day. Club members competed in skill and office knowledge contests on area, state and national levels.

During the Christmas season, the club members participated in the K-mart Underprivileged Program. They bought Christmas presents for about thirty-five underprivileged children. In addition, they collected clothes and canned goods for the Salvation Army. In the spring, the group went on a field trip to a St. Louis business. The group also plans to visit Six Flags during the summer.

During the school year, the Office Occupations Club members participated in several money-making projects. With the money that they earned, the club members bought a gift which they donated for the use of future Office Occupations Club members. In the past, Office Occupations Club members have purchased a video cassette recorder, an adding machine, a photocopier and a transcribing machine.

Council maintains tradition

Student Council undoubtedly affected the social life of Belleville West students. With the help of adviser Mr. Fritz Kunze, Student Council sponsored many activities that have become school traditions. Council members met during third hour to plan the various activities. Students especially enjoyed the Student Council-sponsored activities during Spirit Week. These included float building, the Pretty Baby Contest, dress-up days, the Hall Decorating Contest and the Miss Maroon coronation. Students also enjoyed the Christmas Dance and sending Valigrams to their friends for Valentine's Day. This year the Valigrams were delayed by snow. Originally the Valigrams were to be delivered on Thursday February 11, but school was canceled that day because of snow and February 12 was a holiday. They were finally delivered on February 15. Student Council also sponsored two Blood Drives and co-sponsored the Donkey Basketball Game. Student Council members not only supported school activities, but also helped in the community clean-up programs sponsored by the Proud Partners organization. Members of Student Council were chosen by Belleville West students through an election process.

Students enjoy foreign fare

The foreign language clubs expanded the students' knowledge of the different countries — France, Spain, and Germany. In the foreign language clubs, students were even able to make and taste foreign cuisine. Spanish Club members tried fried churros and the French Club tasted fondue and cherry torte.

Spanish Club activities included a breakfast and a celebration of the Day of the Dead. The German and French Clubs each talked with people who had visited their respective countries. In addition, the French Club won third place for their efforts in the Hall Decorating Contest during Spirit Week.

Ann Blaes, Stacey Kurfman, Alice Thabar, Andy Goldenhersh and Angie Grewe. Little Theatre members worked on four productions this year. Their sponsor was Miss Jane Mueth.

Actors take a bow

For members of Little Theatre, the year started with Freshman - Sophomore One-Acts on October 1. Miss Jennifer Sage directed "Every Room With Bath," Miss Nina Bono directed "Clarabelle the Clock Watcher," and Dr. David Snowden directed "Pullman Car Hiawatha." Soon after the one-acts, rehearsals for the Little Theatre Play The Importance of Being Earnest began. This Oscar Wilde comedy was directed by Miss Nina Bono. The production was performed on November 12 and 13. On February 26, the cast and student directors of The Importance of Being Earnest traveled to Webster College in Missouri to see the college's production of this play. The children's play, Jack Stokes' The Incredible Jungle Journey of Fenda Maria, was performed in matinees on February 9 and 10 and in the evening on February 13. The biggest production of the year, the Spring Musical, was Pippin. It was presented on April 21, 22 and 23.

To become Thespians, students had to work at least two hundred hours on theatre productions. Members of Thespian Troupe 369 helped student direct and served as crew chairmen on each play. This year, for fun, the Thespians held a progressive dinner on December 20.

Children's Play

Theatre performs matinees

The Incredible Jungle Journey of Fenda Maria by Dr. Jack Stokes was this year's children's play. This imaginative story was directed by Dr. Richard Hunsaker and was performed in matinees for elementary school children on Tuesday and Wednesday, February 8 and 9. The evening performance was originally scheduled for February 11, but snow forced the rescheduling of the play to February 13.

The Incredible Jungle Journey of Fenda Maria was an unusual choice because it was more complex than previous children's plays. The play suggests that a person can be divided into two different people. The cast consisted of twenty-one freshmen and sophomores. Dr. David Snowden was the technical director for the production. Miss Jane Mueth handled business matters.

Students speak out

The National Forensic League is an honorary organization. Members had to achieve twenty-five points from public speaking, debate and contests before being chosen to join the organization.

The Debate Squad, coached by Dr. Richard Hunsaker, had one of its better seasons in recent years. Belleville West debaters won or placed in every tournament they entered. Leading varsity debaters were Robert Denton in Lincoln-Douglas and the team of Andy Goldenhersh and Mike Schaefer. Leading novice debaters were juniors Geoff Bay and Michelle Stange and freshmen Stephanie Goldenhersh and Brian Goldsmith. This year's topic was Resolved: That the United States government should adopt a policy to increase political stability in Latin America.

In Individual Events, Erin Moore advanced to the IHSA sectionals by placing second in prose reading in the regionals. Three other West students reached the final round at regionals. John Carty placed sixth in Extempore Speaking and Amy Murphy placed sixth in Declamation. Danny Underwood ranked eighth in Radio. Mr. Alan Sanders coached the IE squad.

Each day, Mr. Dennis Butts and the PEER counselors met in House A. The group consisted of students who wanted to help other people and to get to know themselves better. "PEER gave me a better perspective about myself and about other people," related Toni Hines. PEER counselors attended Operation Snowflake, drug abuse programs held on junior high levels during the year. These students informed junior high students about drug problems and other related topics. The PEER students were also involved in a YES self-esteem program that concentrated on better study habits. In addition, PEER counselors tutored students who needed help in raising their grades.

Members of SADD, Students Against Driving Drunk, met with Mr. Bruce Addison, their sponsor, to discuss ways to help stop the problem of drunk driving. "More emphasis needs to be placed on the problems of drunk driving among high school students," pointed out Susan Baum. SADD members went to Edwardsville to listen to the founder of the SADD program. They also sponsored a Christmas taxi service.

Groups boost spirit

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes met twice a month to discuss Christian fellowship and related topics. Every person came to the meetings with different ideas. "Many different ideas are expressed that really make each person think about God and what Christianity is all about," said Jennifer Klein. Each person was willing to share his ideas. During the year, FCA members sold popcorn during basketball games. At Christmas time these students went caroling. FCA members also attended weekend conferences throughout the year.

Maroon Pride met every Wednesday morning to discuss money making projects and ways to raise school spirit. On Hobo Day, these students decorated the campus with toilet paper. During Spirit Week, these spirited club members painted faces of students to boost the pride in Belleville West. Next year, Maroon Pride will sell buttons as their major money maker. "It has been hard trying to make a respectable club," said Mrs. Sheryl Deets. "This club has had to start at the bottom, but they are doing a very good job," she added.

Music fills the air

Maroon Majic, Concert Choir, Bellevillettes, Choraleers, and Choralettes, directed by Mr. Donald Jones, met every day to practice for the concerts they would give at West and at feeder schools. Concert Choir and Bellevillettes gave a winter concert and a spring concert. On May 17, the Choraleers, Choralettes and the other choral groups came together to give the concert "Festival of Song."

Besides giving concerts, the Concert Choir performed at the Tree of Lights on November 20, and sang upstairs in the cafeteria after caroling through the halls on December 18. The Christmas performances alternated between Concert Choir, Maroon Majic and Bellevillettes.

Maroon Majic performed in the Concert Choir concerts and "Festival of Song," but they also gave many other concerts at various functions throughout the community. Senior Karin Steele, member of Maroon Majic and Concert Choir, has enjoyed her experience in the Belleville West choral groups. She seemed to be speaking for everyone when she said, "We have so much fun." Junior Stacey Kurfman, a member of Maroon Majic and Concert Choir and a pianist for Bellevillettes, enjoys performing because "Everybody loves to watch us."

Maroon Majic members include Jason Scobbie, Michele Glass, Joan Adams, Mike Buescher, Jennifer Stammer, Karin Steele, Beth Carroll, Stefanie Kurfman, Jeannette Powell, Ryan Cady, Harold

Trumpeters advance to state

Mr. Ralph Schlesinger led the Concert Band, Jazz Band, and Orchestra to a successful year of concerts and contests. Concerts for the Orchestra and Concert Band were held on December 10 and March 10. The Jazz Band provided the entertainment at the November 24 and May 19 Swingin' and Singin' concerts. Throughout the year, the groups performed at several feeder schools and at various times on the Belleville West campus.

Cheryl Purnell, Karen Voegtle, John Robinson, Aaron Duncan, Becky Trapp, Karen Ritzel and John Carty were selected to represent Belleville West in the District 6 Band and Jazz Band. Aaron Duncan and John Robinson were also chosen to participate in state competition.

Below, during the annual Labor Day Parade, the American Flag and Rifle squad leads the Marching Band from Cathedral Grade School to Hough Field. Besides leading the Marching Maroons in parades, the American Flag squad helped the pompon girls and Rifle Squad with their equipment during shows and competitions.

Auxiliary adds flair

The American Flag and Rifle Squad and the Pompon Squad, a major section of the Marching Maroons, was led by Mr. Ralph Schlesinger and Miss Robyn Moore. The twenty-eight members of the combined teams began practicing early in August to perform award winning shows throughout the fall. Included in their awards were Overall Outstanding Auxiliary at both the Greater St. Louis Marching Band Competition at Busch Stadium and at the O'Fallon High School Contest.

During July, the girls competed at the National Cheerleading Association Competition at Southwest Missouri State University and won in the precision round. Seniors Lisa Pennington and Angela Procasky performed in the Macy's Parade in New York City on Thanksgiving Day. Also, junior Jenny Clasquin placed tenth in the Individual Drilling Contest held at the NCA Camp.

According to senior co-captain Tracy Anglim, "Pompon is different from cheerleading because we create our own dances without much supervision." They practice during seventh hour and after school in the cafeteria. The routines are made up and taught by senior captain Lisa Pennington. Once a week assistant coach Mrs. Merle Guthrie spends a night helping the squad to get ready for performances. Whether a part of the Marching Maroons or the Pompon Squad, they never fail to lose their Mighty Maroon Spirit.

Schmidt, captain Jeri Brandenburger, Sherry Firnkes and Stacey Hawkins.

Below, after a long summer of practicing for the National Cheerleading Association Camp competition, the pompon squad presents their routine to "You Spin Me Round." At this summer camp, six members of the squad were named pink ribbon girls, and Lisa Pennington received a special trophy. The squad was also presented with the Outstanding Captains Award.

Band marches to own drum

Once again the Marching Band was directed by Mr. Ralph Schlesinger. With the help of Mr. Schlesinger and drum majors Mark Schlesinger, Mike Swistak and Tom Sliment, the Marching Maroons had a successful and fun-filled year. During the contest season, the Marching Maroons performed their show throughout the area for many appreciative crowds. The Marching Band increased school spirit by performing their show at halftime at football games and at pep assemblies. In addition, they marched in the Millstadt Homecoming Parade, the Labor Day Parade and the Santa Claus Parade. The Marching Maroons also competed against other area marching bands in contests held in high schools and colleges throughout the state, such as Eastern Illinois University and Illinois State University. One of the highlights of the year was the competition held at Busch Stadium in St. Louis, where they won numerous awards, including second place overall.

The Marching Band members plan to take a trip to Colorado June 7 to 13. To help finance this trip, band members held many fund raisers throughout the year. They made and sold pizzas in September and again in May. At various times during the school year they sold cheese and sausage, hand soap, soup and croissant sandwiches. They also held an auction in February and sold advertising in their concert program.

Row) adviser Miss Jo Lynda Manion, Robert Denton, Todd Weeks, Jon Berry and Jon Bay.

Students explore hobbies

The Rough Writers provided an opportunity for Belleville West's amateur writers to have their works published in Page One, West's own literary magazine. Once students submitted their works, the Rough Writers selected and edited the best literature for publication. The Rough Writers were guided in their publishing by Miss Jo Lynda Manion, the group's sponsor.

The War Gaming Club calmed the barbarian in many of West's hobbyists by providing a creative and challenging outlet. Every morning, room N208 was filled with the sounds of dice and battle as the club members played various games such as "Diplomacy," "Guns of August" and "War and Peace." Mr. Gary Shepek bravely took on the task of being the club sponsor.

On a more peaceful note, the Model Railroad Club offered West's train enthusiasts a chance to share collections and discover the many fascinations of model trains and their operation. The club met every Monday after school in the basement of House B. Dr. David Snowden, who has been a train enthusiast for years, was the club sponsor.

Students develop logic

The Computer/Electronics Club explored the areas of computers and electronics so that its members could discover the many wonders of today's technology. Computer work was the club's main activity. Mr. Dwight Friemann was the club's adviser.

The Chess Club's adviser, Mr. Gary Shepek, pushed the club members forward onto the checkered board of intellectual battle. Club members learned new strategies in an effort to expand their chess and logic skills.

The Science Team competed at various contests around the St. Louis Area. At the JETS contest, first place awards went to Andy Clemens, Leah Farinas and Henry Lee, who won two awards. The team won ten other individual awards and a first place team trophy. Mr. Frank Cange was the team's adviser.

Mathletes win awards

The math team was a group of individuals seeking recognition for their abilities in the scholarly pursuit of "X" and "Y". The talents of these individuals were directed by Mrs. Marilyn Hughes, Mr. Jeffrey Boyles, Mrs. Dian Thom and Mr. Frank Cange. On November 14, the Maroon Mathletes participated in the Greater St. Louis Mathematics Association contest at St. Louis Community College. After all the mathletes had taken part in the contest, awards were delivered to several members of the math team. Individually, Rob Dyer was third, Henry Lee came in fourth, Jennifer Markwardt was seventh, and Geoff Bay came in tenth for the juniors. Jon Bay took third and Kevin Maurer was eighth for the seniors. Rob Dyer and Henry Lee captured first place as a group for the juniors while seniors Jon Bay and Kevin Maurer took home third. The Maroon Mathletes then ventured onward to Edwardsville to participate in the regional competition of the Illinois Council of Teachers of Mathematics. After sweeping through the competition, they charged into the state competition at Illinois State University at Normal. On March 26, the Mathletes participated in the Southern Illinois University contest at Carbondale. The members of the math team took part in two in-school competitions on both the state and national levels. Each competition held five contests. The Maroon Mathletes held weekly practices to enhance their mathletic abilities for the contests they participated in each year. The junior-senior math team held their own practices on Monday night. Then the freshman and sophomore teams had their practices immediately after school on Tuesdays and Wednesdays. Practices continued through school holidays as well. Freshman Dennis Liu spoke for the whole team when he said, "Math team: It's a way of life!"

Students explore the past

The History Club started its year by deciding on individual projects and research papers. The students picked topics related to the history of Illinois. Four students also wrote research essays that were printed in Illinois History Magazine. The four students were Liz Dueker, Steve Parvin, Kelly Sutter and Laura Wasko. Mr. Vince Torigian, History Club sponsor, helped the students edit their research papers and the short reports accompanying their projects. These papers and projects were then entered in the Illinois State Historical Society Southern Regional History Fair at Rend Lake College March 19.

The club raised money through the basketball concession stand and monthly bake sales. At the end of the year, the History Club held an awards night.

Amy Murphy, Michelle Torigian, Holly Hubbs, Kristie Kramer, Angie Calvin, Alice Thabar; (Top Row) Wally Martin, Chris Yankey, Rob Dyer and Scott Probst. Besides working on research papers and projects, the History Club helped conduct tours for the county Historical Society.

Students excel in academics

Where else could an Illinois school control the policies of entire nations such as the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics (Russia), the German Democratic Republic, Saudi Arabia, Vietnam and the Congo than in the Model United Nations. This organization, under the direction of Mr. Robert Hanson, allowed students to exercise various diplomatic techniques through practice sessions and two United Nations sessions at McKendree College in the fall and spring. They also held two World Court cases, Israel suing Russia and Kampuchea suing Vietnam. The group met weekly on Thursday evenings to discuss policy and to practice. Individual award winners for the Model United Nations were Jon Bay, Liz Duecker, Robert Dyer and John Hunter, all of whom won Superior Delegate honors at the fall session.

The National Honor Society consisted of the cream of the crop academically. Membership was limited to seniors whose grade point averages were 3.5 or better. This year ninety-eight students qualified. Activities in which the group participated included Christmas caroling and helping a needy family.

Most students are not lucky enough to mix work and pleasure. Shawn Mayo, sophomore, works at Baseball Highlights and feels right at home. She sorts, prices, sells, and trades baseball collectables for the business and herself. Shawn is also a veterinarian's assistant. Cleaning cages and preparing animals for surgery are just two of her tasks. What does Shawn like least about her jobs? "When people complain to you about prices you can't change or when there's a mean dog or a scratching cat," she says.

Everything you've ever dreamed of to create the perfect wedding-all at one great store. And WOW! Are we going to save you money! And we'll hold your hand every step of the way!

Wedding Emporium
INTERNATIONAL

An Open Letter to Brides-To-Be:

Since we opened our first store over a year ago, hundreds of brides-to-be have asked us to help them with questions about planning their upcoming weddings. I recently gave a bridal seminar entitled "Planning & Coordinating the Perfect Wedding." If you'll stop by our store, we'll give you a copy of that seminar absolutely free. It will show you some ways to save money and help you eliminate some of the hassle in planning your wedding.

I have a fabulous concept that few people use. I believe everybody should give fabulous free service. If someone is willing to render free services, they must know an awful lot more than they can sell.

I don't know how far along you are in planning your wedding, but I sincerely hope this transcript will help you. And if there is any way we can be of service, please call!

Congratulations and Best Wishes - Shirley Ann Redden

moonlighting

Mrs. Merle Guthrie began her teaching career forty-eight years ago at the age of nineteen. She was the youngest teacher in the state. She has spent forty-three years on the Belleville West campus. Prior to teaching in Belleville, Mrs. Guthrie had taught in Broughton and El Dorado, Illinois.

In the 1950's when the campus served both high school and junior college, she taught English, speech and math. At West, she continued teaching math, including algebra, geometry (her favorite) and trigonometry.

Mrs. Guthrie's contributions to the school go far beyond the classroom. For example:

- *She helped organize Little Theatre and the Thespian troupe in 1949;

- *She organized the Dance Club and taught ballroom dancing to about 150 students;

- *She coached the cheerleading squads for thirty-three years;

- *She coached the pompon squads for fifteen years;

- *She directed the Junior Jam for many years;

- *She coached sophomore math teams;

- *She directed many Little Theatre productions;

- *She coordinated the Junior-Senior Prom for many years;

- *She organized and led the drill team of sixty-four girls for five years.

- *She sponsored classes each year.

Perhaps one of Mrs. Guthrie's greatest contributions, however, was in the math department. She inaugurated the double math system. Now, sophomores can take Geometry and Junior Algebra at the same time. Then, they can take Calculus as seniors.

In 1966, Belleville Township High School split into East and West. After twenty-one years at Belleville Township, the split "broke my heart," but after twenty-two years at West, "I know it was the best now," she said.

Throughout Mrs. Guthrie's career, there have been many changes. The biggest change, she pointed out, has been the increasing number of girls' activities. In early years, the only involvements for girls were cheerleading and chorus. Now, girls can choose from almost as many activities as boys.

No teacher has served District 201 longer than Mrs. Merle Guthrie. Her enthusiasm for learning and her Mighty Maroon spirit were evident in and outside the classroom. After forty-three years as a dedicated teacher and friend, Mrs. Guthrie has become a tradition.

"Mrs. Merle Guthrie has left an indelible imprint on this institution which she has served so outstandingly for forty-three years. Her hallmark is, and always has been, excellence. At sixty-seven years young, she continues to have more energy and talent than is believable, and she buttresses these with commitment to and love for this school and its students. Throughout her career, she has been a virtuoso teacher, coach, and director. Among the many characteristics for which she will be remembered are her indomitable spirit, her colorful personality, and her unwillingness to give quarter to anything less than outstanding effort and achievement. BTHSW, its students, and I personally will miss Mrs. Guthrie greatly."

Bellevinois Colophon

The 1988 Bellevinois was printed by Josten's American Yearbook Company in Topeka, Kansas. The local consultant was Mr. Ed Sugden, and the in-plant representative was Mrs. Rosemary Petrone.

The cover design was created by Bellevinois adviser Mrs. Pat Matysik and Josten's staff artist Mr. Steve Maxwell. The theme, "moonlighting," was developed by Lisa Witcher.

Some 1,600 copies of the Bellevinois were produced and sold. The book is Smyth sewn and printed on eighty pound gloss paper. The laminated cover uses all process color. The end-sheets are white with black 395 applied. Most type is Helvetica. Headline sizes are usually 36 point, 24 point, or 18 point. Body copy is 10 point, and captions are 8 point. Most copy was set on an Apple IIgs computer using Josten's Auto Copy I program.

The Bellevinois staff consisted of one freshman, five sophomores, six juniors and twenty-one seniors. Most of the staff met for twenty-five minutes during 4a. Previously, Bellevinois staffs met for a full period. Because of scheduling conflicts caused by the increase in courses required by Illinois colleges, most students did not have room in their schedules for a full period of yearbook. Thus, some staff members had to work evenings and weekends to complete the 1988 Bellevinois.

Special recognition goes to Nelson Arzola, who spent many extra hours working with the computer; to Cathy Hotz and Karen Ritzel, who slaved tirelessly on the advertising section; and to photographers Scott Radden, Rick Wangelin, Rodney Renner and Jay Kish for the great camera work.

Since the final deadline was in March, several events could not be covered. To remedy this situation, the Bellevinois staff is publishing a supplement which will be available in August. Included in the supplement will be spring sports and activities such as the prom and graduation. Students will have the option of paying the postage and having their supplement mailed to them or picking up their supplement at school.

1987-88 IN REVIEW

The year of 1987-1988 was characterized by political action. The nation stood up, looked around and decided to make some changes. This sentiment grew in geometric proportions as 1988 presidential candidates traveled America telling everyone what was wrong and what should be done about these wrongs. This year of "eye-opening" campaigns made America reevaluate itself in a way that few other years could. With the stock market crash of October and the threat of nuclear war ever increasing, the pictures of tomorrow looked pretty dim. Something had to be done; someone had to act; and several people did just that.

Perhaps the greatest of cries came from the music industry. Billy Joel performed an explosive concert in Moscow, an effort to bring about closer ties between the people of the two super powers. Also, many musicians protested against the evils around them. For example, Paul Simon joined several musicians from South Africa to condemn apartheid in that country. In addition to attacking specific problems such as these, other musicians continued to make observations about the world in their lyrics.

On the lighter side, television exposed the world to a multitude of political actions and forecasts. As might be expected, the news brought many eye-openers to the public's attention such as the rise and fall of Gary Hart and Jim and Tammy Bakker, but it was a television series that gave America the freshest look. Max Headroom made his move from Coke commercials to television shows with a controversial series set "twenty minutes into the future." The comedy featured a fascist, television-controlled government. Also, a comical ambassador from the planet Melmac landed in the television sets of many people on the television show "ALF". In the sports world, the 1988 Winter Olympics were televised during the month of February, bringing the unique Olympic spirit of good will and competition into the homes of America.

The climax of the year's political activities came with the signing of the strategic arms control treaty between the United States and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. Many skeptics viewed this new agreement as a political move strictly for publicity rather than as a true desire for peace, but the majority of political observers saw the treaty as a big step toward a brighter and safer tomorrow. In addition to this, the Soviet Union announced plans to withdraw its military forces from Afghanistan.

All of these political actions indicate, if nothing else, that the people of the world recognize the need for change. The world community, particularly the United States, took many stands and professed many ideas, but the true value of these actions can only be determined by what they produce for the generations of tomorrow. Meanwhile, the rest of the world can only pray that these actions are more than just the moonlighting of the world's political and social "bosses."

Above, Bono, the lead singer of the Irish rock group U2, opens a concert at Madison Square Garden. U2 received the Grammy for "Album of the Year" for "Joshua Tree." Below, ALF, a furry Alien Life Form, entertains America's youth in a weekly television series.
